Subject: Time accounting for gold king mine blowout response

Just got off the phone with Art. Couple of things related to gold king...

- SBO, Jen Wilbur, is advising that we find out what the charge number is for the response. I haven't seen anything on that from any Regions, yet. Not sure how that will unfold. One thing we need to be sensitive to is that the Regions may expect that only certain people that have been "activated" to support the response are charging to that number if it appears. Is this the case? Harry and Dee, you would know the ins and outs of that from past responses. This gets me to my next point/question...
- For our staff who are receiving calls "off the books" (i.e., have not been "officially mobilized or activated") we are asking that they track their time. I sent a note out to all ERT staff on this earlier today.
- I heard from Terrence today that his name appeared on a list of personnel who are authorized to charge overtime to the response. He will forward me the message later today when he is back from the J&L site and I'll forward to you if he doesn't to/cc you himself. There has been a ICS 213 request for his support for mass balance modeling, but as yet he has not been provided the information he needs to do the calculations.
